* Subject to reservations that:

(a) As regards Article 61, amendments to the Convention which may become obligatory on the Brazilian Government must, in the first place, be accepted by the Brazilian Government.

(b) The Brazilian Government reserves the right to determine whether, from the point of view of the measures to be applied, a foreign area must be considered to be infected, and to prescribe the measures to be adopted, under the special circumstances, in regard to aircraft and persons arriving in a Brazilian aerodrome.

† Subject to the reservation that the Government of Iraq reserves the right to accept only those certificates which are signed by a recognised official of the Public Health Services of the country concerned, and which carry within the text of the certificate an intimation of the office occupied by the person signing that certificate, if the circumstances appear to be such that certificates delivered under the conditions laid down in Article 32 of the Convention do not provide all the necessary guarantees.

* Notice of affirmative action accepted as an instrument of ratification (section 8).

† Notice of ratification (section 8). China and Spain deposited formal instruments of ratification on the 14th and 8th May, 1934, respectively. China ratified with the following reservation:—

“ In ratifying this agreement the National Government of China declares that, as silver is the basic monetary standard of China, the National Government will consider itself at liberty to take whatever action it may seem appropriate if, in its opinion, changes in the relative values of gold and silver adversely affect the economic condition of the Chinese people contrary to the spirit of stabilising the price of silver as embodied in this agreement.”
